

ROADMAP OF LIFE

2007

I was born on the morning of July 31, 2007, and until 2016, I lived in Eugene, Oregon.

Since I lived next to the Willamette River, I learned to fish from an early age; the fishermen I met gave me lessons and fishing lures.

My grandfather, “Papa Carl,” an engineer and a veteran of WWII, was the best; we played together all the time.

When my “cuz-uncle,” Guy Davis, a world-traveling, Grammy-nominated blues musician came to visit, he played harmonica with me,
and gave me great piggy-back rides!

Memories of Cinnamon, the best snuggle bunny in the whole wide world!
An angel who brought cheer and comfort to many who needed a hug!

I had a snuggly pet rabbit named Cinnamon.

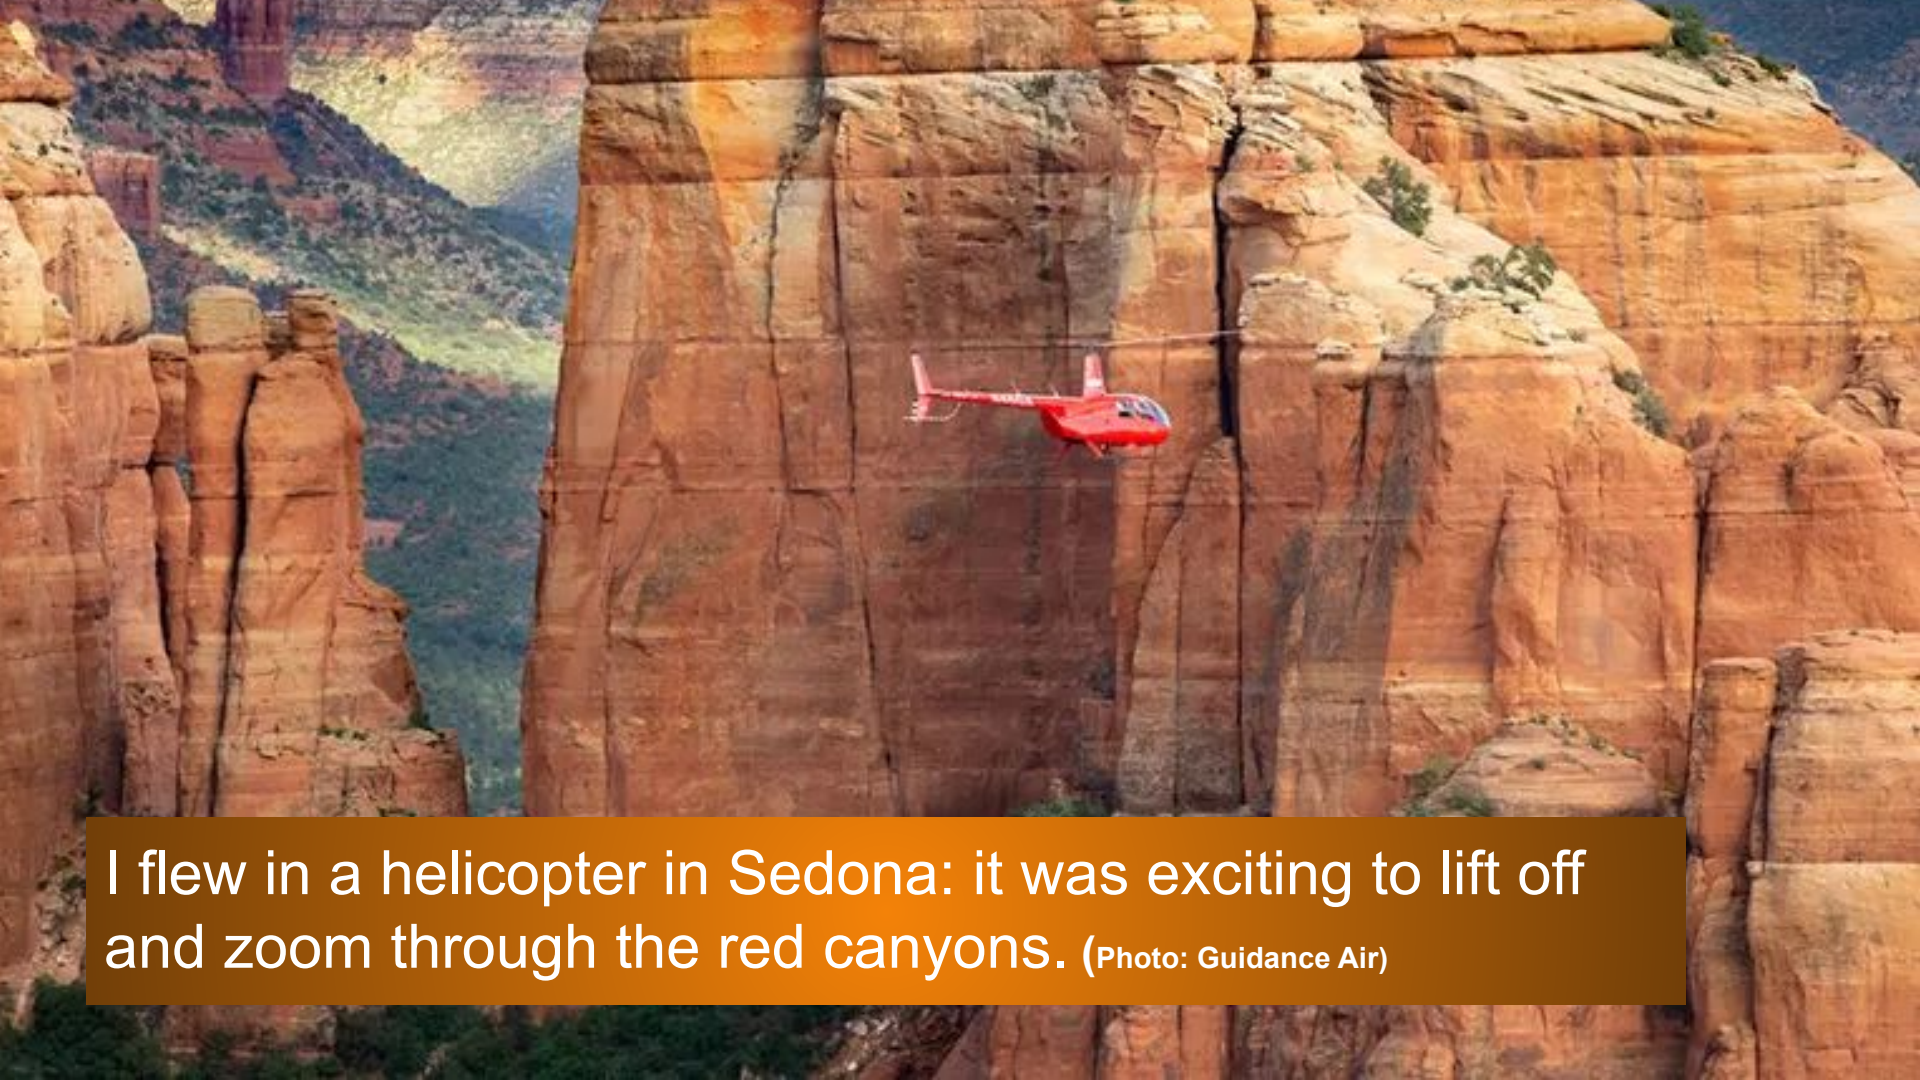

I visited California with my mom in 2016: we hung out with surfers in Santa Cruz, visited the Golden Gate Bridge, and walked under a giant redwood tree.

I moved to the Oregon coast in 2016, and lived on Alsea Bay for 2 years.

The pandemic of 2020 was a strange time: the stores ran out of toilet paper, I sometimes had to wear a mask, and my hair was green.

Currently, I live in Newport, Oregon, and on many days, I walk my dog on the beach at the foot of the Yaquina lighthouse.

Next year, I will get my license; if I had my choice, I'd cruise around in a Dodge.

When I graduate from high school in 2026, I will travel to Japan; anime really got me interested in the culture.
